Goodlett also expressed concern with the city manager's discretion over merit raises. He said he felt the city manager should have to back up his decision not to give an employee a merit raise, and that any city employee not granted such a raise should be given his "day in court."

court.

Commissioner William Grear said he supported the concept of merit raises based on performance, adding "I do not believe in going across the board and giving employees a raise."

A "take-away" plan was also discussed and decided against by the commission.

A "take-away" plan would provide decreases in pay if an employee was determined not to meet standards.

The commission also discussed civil service rules during the session.

Altman defined two problems with the civil service system in use in Belle Glade:

Not all the employees required to go through the civil service procedures to be placed in jobs are going through the procedures.

Many exams are inappropriate for the job.

According to Goodlett, civil service exams are supposed to be kept current. He suggested someone get in touch with the civil service board to make sure the tests are updated and the most current available.

The commission decided to attempt to arrange a meeting with the board to be scheduled prior to the next commission meeting.

The committee also decided to make no recommendation on the payment of contractors who did work at the transfer station.

Consulting Engineer Duight R. Weyant of the firm Thomas and Weyant, Inc. estimated that work on the station is only 97.3 per cent complete.

plete. Hunt, who would not make a recommendation on what course the committee should follow, said full payment would not be called for until after work is completed.

A list completed at the station include site cleanup; concrete and asphalt repair, replacement and finishing; finishing of the scale house; venting of cells in the station and securing and backfilling of the west retaining wall.

cells in the station and securing and backfilling of the west retaining wall.
Hunt said he is not sure he wants the cells vented. The venting would release any methane gas built up due to decay, according to Hunt.
If the gases are removed, it eliminates a natural warning system, he told the committee. Birds liv-ing in holes around the cells would die if methane built up in them, thus warning of the develop-ment of the gas.
If the cells are vented, the holes the birds live would be filled and the warning system would be eliminated.

Third world?

I camot help but take objection to a recent article in the Palm Beach Post, concerning the arrival of 24 career diplomats in Belle Glade for a two-week course.

The Post reporter made the analogy that Belle Glade for a two-week course.

The Post reporter made the analogy that Belle Glade for a two-week course.

The Post reporter made the analogy that Belle Glade the closest thing to a third world countries the closest thing to a third world countries. The post of the countries of the countries of the close which have little in common with each other or Third World Countries.

I had the opportunity to speak to one of the foreign diplomats at a reception Sunday night than the told me he was looking forward to studying agricultural methods in this area. Glades agriculture is a world model of excellence in production, and he wanted to pickup some pointers which might help his country.

The foreign diplomat recognized that there is nothing Third Worldish about Glades agriculture. Any agricultural area which can provide salad to as much of the United States as the Glades does in winter is doing something right. When I think of Third World countries; I think of places like Bangledesh, India, and some of the African countries where starvation is a daily fact of life.

Belle Glade is no more Third World than New African countries where starvation is a daily fact of life.

Belle Glade is no more Third World than New York City or Los Angeles. It has problems just like any other American city, but it has much going for it too. And the problems certainly don't fall within the range being experienced by Third World countries. You can bet your last inflated cent that any Third World country would be glad to trade its problems for Belle Glade is.

They would love to have the technology, the managers, and resources of Belle Glade in each of their cities of comparable size.

To say that "The closes thing to a Third World country, the state department can find: Belle Glade in some than a bit facetious. It is uncalled for and unfair.

Let those who have been to a Third World country, or better yet, those who have fled from one—the Arabs, Haitlans, and Cubans who have recently arrived in Belle Glade — answer the question. Is Belle Glade — answer the state department can find to a Third World country? The question is too ridiculous to bother answering.

The Everglades Farm Bureau Board of Directors held a meeting and reelected Walter J. Kautz as their president. Postal recipts at the Canal Point Post Office increased 129 percent during the past 13 months, according to the postmaster, Mrs. Edythe Smith. The sharp increase was attributed to the current "sugar boom" in the Glades area.

Mrs. Clark Hull Wilkinson, who had served for 20 years as secretary-treasure of the Hull Packing Co., of Pahokee was presented a diamond watch and bracelet by the company in appreciation.

The first official commercial traffic by water barge was to arrive at Belle Glade in the form of a large shipment of equipment for the thriving sugar industry in the Glades area.

Palm Beach Port manager Joel Wilcox stated that most sugar mills in the area had shown an interest in barge shipments. Reduced costs made water transportation inviting to those with excessive tonnages to obstacles in the road to becoming an established, permanent city.

But it overcame the mosquitos and flooding and myriad of other problems to become the hub of a region known as the "Winter Vegetable Capital of the World."

How did that happen? That is the subject of a study of the area currently being conducted by 24 foreign service officers.

The group will not be looking at just agriculture, though.

After the initial briefing period, the group will divide into smaller units to study specific areas, such as labor, economics, socio-political involvements, water and land use and pollution. The units will develop five to ten page reports on their findings in the area. Those reports will form a reference document for use in AID offices. The delegation was introduced at a reception at the Holiday Inn Sunday, Nov. 15.

They were briefed on the Everglades at a Monday morning session at Palm Beach Junior College Glades Campus.

THE SPACE COLUMBIA'S SECOND LIFT-OFF was captured on film by Belle Glade resident Mike Riley. He said he took a series of about 30 pictures in about half a minute.

Resident travels to lift-off

RILEY wasn't the only photographer at the launch, of course. He estimated that about half a million dollars worth of camera equipment could be found in a 400 yard stretch.

By JEFF BROWN
"The ground started to rumble. The car, I was sitting on a car, and it started to rumble, your guts started to rumble. It was really intense."
Those are the words of Mike Riley of Belle Glade.

Riley was speaking of his impressions of the se-cond launching of the space shuttle Columbia. He traveled to Cape Canaveral Thursday, Nov. 12, to watch the history making lift-off. From a distance of about two and a half miles, he photographed the launching - the first time any spaceship had ever entered space a second time. "It was very impressive," he said. "My brother had seen a Saturn launch once before, but this was more impressive. There's more smoke and flame.

had seen a Saturn launch once before, but this was more impressive. There's more smoke and flame.

"There was about a five second time period when you couldn't see the ship from anywhere." said Riley. "If we'd have heard a big explosion, we'd have figured the thing blew up. It was nothing but smoke and flame. Then, suddenly, like a finger emerging, it rose out of the smoke." At a certain point, the crowd could see the booster rockets fall from the craft and plummet, according to Riley.

"It looked like they do not separate. They just fell off together," he said.

The crowd could not hear anything until the ship was up in the air, said Riley.

"All I can figure is the sound is distributed in a conical pattern," said Riley. "At first we couldn't hear or feel anything. Then, as it (the shuttle) got higher, we started to hear a slight rumble, then it grew in intensity until even your insides were shaking. It reached a peak, then, as the thing got higher, it started to subside."

Riley wasn't the only one there to photograph

Heley wasn't the only one there to pnotograph the event, of course.

"I would say that in the area I was in, about a four hundred yard area, there was about half a million dollars worth of equipment," he said.
"And everybody was so friendly. They'd have these huge lenses on cameras mounted on tripods. If you'd go up and ask 'Hey, can I look through your camera, 'they'd say sure and focus it for you."

your camera. Iney d say sure and focus it for The thing that impressed him the most was the crowd control, said Riley. "You go to sporting events, down to Miami to see a football game, and you have to be scared to go," he said. "Here, everybody was having a good time and there weren't any hassles. Willin 45 minutes after the launch itself, everyone was out."

Riley said he was surprised at the reaction of the people as they were leaving after the launch. "Normally, when you go to a football game or something, you beep your horn and yell as you leave." he said. "But I was the only one who beeped. No one else did. I got some waves and smiles and thumbs up from some of the workers, but none of the other people honked their horns." "It was interesting. I think as close as we are, everyone should go to see at least one launch," said Rilev.

KEEPING THE FAITH

Come let us sing for joy to the Lord; let us shout aloud to the Rock of our salvation. Let us come before Him with thanksgiving and extol Him with music and song.

We live in an area where the harvest is just beginning, but as you know in most of our great land to harvest is over or almost so. So Thanksgiving Day was set as a day to thank God for His abundant supply. Thanksgiving is a time to reflect on the greatness of God's gifts to us as a nation and as a people.

There are many things in life we have a choice about, in fact more things than most of us realize. More about that later. But let dis think about to begin with, the few things we did not have a choice about.
One thing we had no choice about is being born.

More about that later. But let-us think about to begin with, the few things we did not have a choice about.

One thing we had no choice about is being born, either the fact of our birth, the place, or when. We had nothing at all to say about, any of those things. But when we think about the fact of where we were born (most of us reading the column), we had the privilege of being born in the action that much of the rest of the world would like to have been born in. We were born in a land of personning. To be about the live in the columnity. To be about the live in the world specific that the columnity of the set of the world would like to have been born in. We were born in a land of personnity. To be about the live in the world's people will not have the during of the world's people will not have the daily blessings and even what we call necessities that we have. If we really think about this, then there should rise up within us a great spirit of thanksgiving and praise for these blessings of life.

But, that brings us back to what we have a choice about. A Spirit of Thanksgiving is had by choice, not by what we have or do not have. This comes to reality at those times when we meet someone who has very little of what the world would consider the good things of life, yet has a deep and overflowing Spirit of Thanksgiving.

On the other hand I meet those people who seemed to have in a material sense everything they could want. They had the money to buy what ever they might wish for, they had the time to go and do whatever they wanted to Yet, with all of this they were miserable, unloving and unappreciative about everything in life.

What is the difference in these two kinds of situations? The difference is simple. Peoples are thankful because they choose to be. There are people that no matter what they have, they will be miserable. There are others that have chosen to be thankful for all of life and all that it has to offer. These people go through life looking for things to be thankful for and they find it.

True Thanksgiving begins with being thankful to our Maker. It is God who is the real Source of all that we have in life. It is God who spoke creation into being. It is God who put all things in order and provide in the midst of His creation so great a variety and beauty. It is God who given to us live. Not only so but it is in God through Jesus Christ that we have redemption. It is Jesus who paid the price for our salvation.

"Come let us sing for joy unto the Lord:
Let us shout aloud to the Rock of our salvation; Let us shown before Him with thanksgiving, and extol Him with music and song."

come let us sing for joy to the Lord; let us shout aloud to the Rock of our salvation.
Let us come before Him with thanksgiving and extol Him with music and song.

Paslim 95:1 & 2 NIV
We live in an area where the harvest is just beginning, but as you know in most of our great land to harvest is over or almost so. So Thanksgiving Day was set as a day to thank God of His shundant supply. Thanksgiving is a time to reflect on the greatness of God's gifts to us as a nation and as a people.

There are many things in life we have a choice about, in fact more things than most of us realize. More about that later. But let us think about to begin, witch, the few things we did not have a choice about.

One things we had no about a but it is think to the contraction of the c about, in fact more tungs team more or us reasure. More about that later. But let us think about to begia. with, the few things we did not have a choice about. One thing we had no choice about:

One thing we had no choice about is being born. either the fact of our birth, the place, or when. We had nothing at all to say about any of those things. But when we think about the fact of where we were born imost of us reading the column), we had the privilege of being born in the nation that much of the rest of the world would like to have been born in. We were born in a land of freedom, in a land of plenty, and in a land of freedom, in a land of plenty, and in a land of opportunity. To be able to live in such a land is easy to take for granted. But most of the world's people will not have the daily blessings and even what we call necessities that we have. If we replay think about this, then there should rise up within us a great spirit of thanksgiving and praise for these blessings of life.

But, that brings us back to what we have a choice about. A Spirit of Thanksgiving is had by choice, not by what we have or do not have. This comes to reality at those times when we meet so meone who has very little of what the world would consider the good things of life, by thas a deep and overflowing Spirit of Thanksgiving. On the other hand I meet those people who seemed to have in a material sense everything they could want. They had the money to buy what ever they might wish for, they had the time to go and do whatever they wanted to Vet, with all of this they were miserable, unloving and unappreciative about everything in life.

What is the difference in these two kinds of situations? The difference is simple. People are thankful because they choose to be. There are people that no matter what they have, they will be miserable. There are others that have chosen to be thankful for all of life and all that it has to offer. These people go through life looking for things to be thankful for and they find it.

True Thanksgiving begins with being thankful to our Maker. It is God who is the real Source of all that we have in life. It is God who spoke cree-tion into being. It is God who put all things in order and provide in the midst of His creation so great a variety and beauty. It is God who given to us live. Not only so but it is in God through Jesus Christ that we have redemption. It is Jesus who paid the price for our salvation.

"Come let us sing for joy unto the Lord;
Let us about aloud to the Rock of our salvation;
Let us come before Him with thanksgiving, and extol Him with music and song."

Thanksgiving project

Members of Preceptor Gamma Omicron, Beta Sigma Phi scrotity, met at the home of Mrs. Earl Lindrose Nov. 10th. Service projects for this month included bringing food for a Thanksgiving basket for a needsof family and donating to a fund to supplement the basket with meat. Also, plans were made for attending the Cancer Society fashion show to be held soon.

A "homecoming" party will held at the Marina this month, and a Christmas get-together in December.

The members enjoyed refreshments and a pro-

Chemical Bank to acquire shares

JACKSONVILLE-Florida National Banks of Florida, Inc. and Chemical New York Corporation jointly announced Nov. 3 that they had reached an agreement in principle pursuant to which Chemical would acquire a substantial equity in-terest in Florida National to be followed by a merger of the two entities when interstate banking becomes permissible.

Under the agreement, Florida National shareholders will receive 1.5 times the per share book value of Florida National common stock at the time of the merger and in no event less than the time of the merger and in no event less than $38 per share. Mhe aigreement in principle contemplates that Chemical and Florida National will purchase approximately 2.4 million shares of Florida National common stock from a substantial shareholder. Approximately 1.8 million of Florida National shares will be purchased by Chemical, of which 1.3 million will be reclassified as Series B nonvoting common stock. The Series B common stock will be entitled to a dividend of up to three times the dividend paid on the existing common stock. Florida National will obtain the cash needed to repurchase approximately 700,000 shares of its common stock by issuing to Chemical Corporation. National, whicr stated in part:

"The Southeast offer was carefully evaluated" by Florida National's Board, with the help of its legal and financial advisors. The Board considered not only the financial terms of the merger, which the Board considers to be inadequate under the circumstances, but also the fact that a combination between two bank holding companies the size of Southeast and Florida National would raise serious permylatory uportainties.

bination between two bank holding companies the size of Southeast and Plorida National would raise serious regulatory uncertainties.
"While you and your advisors have suggested that those uncertainties could be dealth with by the divestiture of approximately 35 percent of the assets of Florida National, our advisors believe that it may well be necessary for even more of this company's assets to be disposed of if such a combination is to have a reasonable chance of obtaining necessary regulatory approvals, and even then that such approvals might be denied. While such regulatory approval was being sought, furthermore, the Board was very concerned as to the adverse effect that the pending uncertainties would have upon Florida National's shareholders, depositors, customers and employees. "Accordingly, the Board concluded that acceptance of Southeast's proposal would not be in the set interests of Florida National, its shareholders, depositors and employees and the the set interests of Florida National, its shareholders, depositors and employees and the communities that it serves, and the Board has rejected that proposal."

Fighting insect problems

GOLD COAST GARDENER by Gene Joyner Urban Horticulturist

Palm Beach County

A lot of people have recently put in vegetable gardens and found that they are getting an in-creasing amount of insect problems that are affecting the plants.
One of the most common problems facing home gardeners is attack by various types of cate pillars. Often times entire plants may be strippe pillars. Often times entire plants may be stripped of their foliage or, in some cases, small seedlings may be eather right to the ground.

There are many different types of caterpillars and you may find them in many sizes, shapes and colors; however, most of them can be controlled with similar type products. When only a small number of plants are involved, picking off caterpillars by hand whenever they are noticed might be the easiest method. If you do not have the time to inspect your plants daily or have too large a garden to use hand picking as a successful control method, it would be necessary to spray with an insecticide designed for chewing insects.

There are a number of products which are recommended for home garden use and some of the better products include Sevin and Dipel. These are very safe when used as directed and can be used up to the day before harvest.

Another common insect which is found primari-you foliage is called a leaf miner. Leaf miners leave a silvery irregular line on the leaf and if you will find a tiny maggot which is burrowing inside the leaf.

This maggot hatches into a small fly and its the leaf.

This maggot hatches into a small fly and its tunneling often times causes the leaf either to abort prematurely or die.

Since the leaf miners are within the leaf it is much more difficult to get control of them and only a few products are available that are used on edible plants and the best for home use is Diazinon which is a general purpose insecticide that controls many of the common garden pests.

Aphids are tiny, pin-head size insects of various colors that are found on succulent new growth, undersides of leaves and young flower buds and Truit.

When present in large numbers their feeding canhause distortion of foliage, loss of flower buds or young fruit, and, in a few cases, they transmit virus diseases which will kill plants.

Aphids, fortunately, are one of the easiest pests

Aphids, fortunately, are one of the easiest pests control and most any general purpose insecticide such as Malathion or Diazinon usually gives good control on vegetables.

Leaf or fruit eating beetles may also become a problem as the plants approach maturity.

There are more types of beetles than all other insects combined and there are many types of beetles that have very specific preferences as to hosts and plant parts they attack while others are indiscriminate feedcers and will eat almost any type of vegetation.

any gave a squeau of nair-beiter and squeezed the arm of her escort, Paul Allen.

She stepped forward with moist eyes and was crowned by last year's queen, Diana Morgan.

The victory for the Gators was an easy one as their offense was able to break through the Terrier defense. Tobin Vanscoy, a senior running back, carried the ball for three Gator couchdowns.

The Gators played a fast rushing game and Vanscoy, the main ball carrier, was able to rack up more than 200 yards in 20 plays.

Gators Julio Rivas, Andy Fontaine, Brian Carter, and Scott Meredith made key tackles to keep the Moore Haven rushing down and sacked the Terrier quarterback five times during the game.

was Twila Scruggs, sister of this year's queen. Both of the Scruggs sisters were also selected Miss Senior by their Gator classmates.

The Gators got on the board first with a touchdown run by Quarterback Raul Garcia. A rush by Vanscoy brought the ball to the four yard line and Garcia carried it over. Before the second quarter ended Vanscoy carried the ball over thin on the fourth down to make the score 12-0. They ran for the conversion and upped the score to 14-0. [Confined on Fage . 8]

"It's going to be hard to rise back from this," said McCoy. "We can't "get get anything going."

The Raiders were beaten by Suncoast Oct. 30, now they must travel to their home field and even the score.

The Raiders were behind 14-0 to the Devils at the half.
Pahokee was scheduled to receive the kick-off in the second half, but relinquished that privilege in favor of an up-wind position-in the fourth counter.

reinfiguisned that privages of an up-wind position in the fourth quarter.

The strategy was to hold the Raiders in the third period, then have them passing into the strong wind in the last quarter.

It worked Glades Central put their six points on the board late in the game with a touchdown. The two-point conversion failed. From then on, the Raiders couldn't get anything going once they got to within scoring range.

The Raiders regular season is over. They travel to Suncoast for the first playoff game next week.

The Crusaders season ended with the fourth quarter Saturday, and all Salvatore can really do is look toward the future. Everyone but McCroan and Tackle Scott Hudson return next year, which will give Salvatore a team with experience. Salvatore isn't about to apologize for this year, though. His young team played more experienced squads tough, he said.

"I was pleased with the guys," he said. "Going out there and giving it a good game even though the odds were usually against them."
Next year his older and more experienced squad should face nothing: but 1A teams, if Salvatore is successful in his schedule planning.

In the third quarter, a 38-yard pass from Garcia to Tom Wilson increased the lead 20-0. Todd Kroesen's kick was good to make it 21-0.

21-0. The Gators moved the ball to the two yard line after a 33-yeard move and Vanscoy scored another touchdown. Kroesen was called out for the kick again and the Gator fans cheered at the 28-0 score. Vanscoy teamed up again with Kroesen in the fourth quarter for the Gator's last points to make the score 35-0.

With less than two minutes left in the game, Moore Haven capitalized on a fumbled punt and Terrier Richard Peterson ran 95 yards to get the Terriers on the board.

ROXANNE BOUNDS

Southern Kitchens Cooking School program coordinator

"The entire United States is my hometown," says Roxanne Bounds, program coordinator for the SOUTHERN KITCHENS Cooking School. "Travel is nothing new to me. But it's still as much fun as ever. Maybe more.

Roxanne's father was an Air Force officer and Roxanne had travelled from Australia to Michigan before she became a student a the University of Alabama.

"I guess I consider the South my true home because both my parents are from Birmingham, and I used to visit my grandmother every summer and get filled up on that good old Southern home cooking.

Roxanne's enthusiasm for her work is well matched by her professionalism. She graduated from the University of Alabama with degrees in home economics and marketing, two disciplines that led her naturally to her present job as program coordinator. In this position, Roxanne acts as the advance contact person for the cooking school and handles the scheduling, promotion, and merchant contact in each town where the school travels. Her travels plus her varied background have equipped Roxanne for her demanding job.

As both business person and con-sumer, Roxanne understands the sponsors' needs and the public's expectations. She was director of the Consumer Protection Bureau on the University of Alabama campus for two year and also the recipient of Marketing Association awards for outstanding contributions to marketing,

"The best part of my job, as far as I'm concerned, is meeting new people. I always feel that I've made a new friend, not just met a new person. I live here in the South by choice, not just because I've never seen other parts of the United States. I think Southern people are the friendliest in the country perhaps in the world.

"Our SOUTHERN KITCHENS Cooking School is geared toward the Southern market in that we try to demonstrate recipes that will appeal to Southerners. At the same time, we try to demonstrate new kitchen techniques that will help people save time. All of our recipes are easy so that working housewives can enjoy them, too. And working husbands," Roxanne adds with a smile.

Be sure to attend to cooking school and meet Roxanne Bounds and other members of the SOUTHERN KIT-CHENS Cooking School staff.

"The best part of my job, as far as I'm concerned, is meeting new people. I always feel that I've made a new friend, not just met a new person. I live here in the South by choice, not just because I've never seen other parts of the United States I think Southern people are the friendliest in the country

- perhaps in the world "Our SOUTHERN KITCHENS Cooking School is genred toward the Southern market - that we try to demonstrate recipes that will appeal to Southerners. At the same time, we try to demonstrate new kitchen techniques that will help people save time. All of our recipes are easy so that working housewives can enjoy them, too. And working husbands." Roxanne adds with a smile.

SOUTHERN KITCHENS COOKING SCHOOL HOME ECONOMIST

Some people know from an early age just what they want to do with their lives, and Linda Ullian of the SOUTHERN KITCHENS Cooking School is a classic example. Even as a child, Linda's interest in food and nutrition had begun to blossom as she helped her mother and grandmother prepare meals for the family.

Blend any quantity of kitchen talent with an equal amount of desire to travel and you have the ideal SOUTHERN KITCHENS Cooking School home economist. Season with a friendly, helpful personality, garnish with showmanship, and you have Linda Ullian. Add an irresistable topping, add lots of intelligence.

Linda is an honors graduate of Florida State University, where she majored in food and nutrition. Despite her youth, Linda is a veteran home economist and held several positions of responsibility at Florida State University, with the Florida Extension Service, and with the Brevard Hospital in Melbourne, Florida.

Relating to an audience of a thousand or more people during the Cooking School show is the challenge that Linda loves best.

"The evening should be entertaining as well as instructive," Linda says. "Trying to become friends with a large audience may sound like an impossible task, and if you don't do it right, the interchange can seem very impersonal. But I can usually get a feel for my audience right away, and then I like to perform to their tastes."

During the course of the program, several members of the audience are invited onstage to sample the dishes prepared. Linda feels that this helps strengthen the rapport between herself and the audience.

"I really enjoy travelling to new places, meeting new people and trying new recipes," Linda says. "I love the feeling that I'm constantly learning new things. Every part of the South has its own subtle differences, its own charm. The food is part of that localized atmosphere, so I always come away from a place with a sense of having learned something myself. I'd hate to think of myself as just a wind-up recording who talks and teaches well but never listens. I don't think we'd be as well received as we are if that were the case."

Travelling for the SOUTHERN KIT-CHENS Cooking School requires a lot of time, but in her off hours, Linda enjoys seafood and sunshine, horseback riding, swimming, tennis, and shopping for antiques.

You won't want to miss the show. It's a real evening out that you can bring back home with you.

AR EAST SOUFFLE ADDS ELEGANCE TO ECONOMY MEALS

Even with the rising costs of eggs, the price per pound still makes them more economical than many meats, fish and poultry. And eggs are an excellent source of protein so they make a dish good main substitute.

There are numerous ways of serving eggs but one of the most elegant is in a souffle. Often shyed away from, souffles are actually quite easy to prepare. There is one rule of thumb, however...serve immediately. It is better for family and friends to wait than for you wait for

Останивания выправления в на выправляющей в на выстранительного в на выправляющей в на выправления в на выправляющей в на выстранительного в на выстранительного в на выправ

Far East Souffle, with the addition of cooked rice, curry powder and chopped onion, quickly changes the basic cheese souffle into a delicious international treat. Campbell's Condensed Cream of Mushroom Soup takes the work out of the preparation and impacts a mild flavor of its own. Serve this luscious souffle with Almond-Shrimp Sauce, a tasty combination of lightly browned chopped almonds and Campbell's Condensed Cream of Shrimp Soup. (Just one of the many flavorful sauces that can be prepared economically with condensed soups.)

Once you've tried Far Souffle and have seen how easy it is to make, you'll want to serve souffles more often. Make you own creations by changing the spice or varying the sauce. Either way, souffles will soon become a favorite for family and guests, alike.

PASTA SHOWS ITS COLORS

Second only to music and art, Italy has given the world pasta. Granted, there are purists who recall that pasta was actually invented by the Chinese, but it took the Italian creativity to develop this modest staple to the dazzling array of sizes, shapes and even colors enjoyed today.

Every family has its favorite recipe for spaghetti with tomato sauce. This is one dish that appeals to children and adults alike. For greater variety, economy and nutrition, there are countless other pasta dishes to try.

Hamilton Beach shows how easily these basic recipes can be altered, adapted and served up a variety of colorful ways.

The elegant fettucinni with the addition of even left-overs such as peas and ham diced swiftly in a Food Processor achieves new gustatory heights with a no-cook vegetable, spinach, is disguised to fool even the most astute child with green noodles topped with a favored meat and tomato sauce.

"Fettucinni Forestiere."

That often maligned

Pesto, that seasonal delight that depends upon fresh basil leaves, is shown in subtle variations with bases ranging with watercress to brocoli to spinach or parsley without loosing its well-earned reputation for a spectacular one-dish meal.

The use of fresh ingredients; grated Parmesan cheese, olive oil, basil or blend of cheeses, melted butter and oil whipped up in minutes in a blender.

The addition of peas, mushrooms and ham raises this modest dish to a creation known as Fettuccini Primavera. Any number of vegetables and herbs, even left-overs can be used to make this delectable one-dish meal.

Pesto sauce, that seasonal delight that depends upon fresh basil leaves, is no longer a major undertaking when leaves and pine nuts are ground in a Food Processor or blender. Variations on this delicacy can substitute broccoli, spinach, watercress for fresh basil with equally delicious results.

The busy cook can use her own creativity much as the Italians have over the centuries in experimenting with various flour bases for pasta as well as unusual shapes.

"SECOND OLDEST FORM OF COOKING WITH A MODERN TOUCH — THAT'S SLOW COOKERS

Slow cooking — simmering at low heat for a long time — is probably the second oldest form of cooking (the first being roasting over an open fire). Archaeological evidence suggests that this type of cooking dates as far back as 25,000 B.C. In colonial America, slow cooking evolved into the one-pot meat simmered slowly over the hearth in a large cast iron kettle.

The Crock Watcher is today's updated version of old-fashioned slow cooking method. Further, it gives new freedom. Simply combine the ingredients as specified, set the dial to the desired temperature, and the cooking takes care of itself.

Slow cookers have economical features in that they can utilize cheaper cuts of meat and consume less energy than a stove or oven. Meats and vegetables retain nutritive value and flavors.

FOR A NEW TASTE SENSATION SLIP INTO A BLENDER SOUP

There's a new way to turn familiar ingredients into opulent, rich tasting soups that are unlike anything ever tasted before.

The great new idea is called blender soup sensations.

As proof again that the best ideas are often the simplest, this technique is quick, convenient and creative. It provides a basic method for preparing one-of-a-kind soups that are smooth starters for the finest lunches and dinners. An ingenious cook doesn't have to serve the same kind of soup twice, since variations are unlimited.

Here's how to create a sensation in your kitchen: take a can of Campbell's condensed soup, add sauteed onion and seasonings and cooked vegetable. Put the mixture in a blender until smooth, then heat with milk or cream. 2 T. thinly sliced green onle Serve hot or chilled.

Garnished imaginatively with toasted coconut, a slice of mushroom, julienne carrot strips or feathery dill, the soups look as inviting as they taste exciting.

For cooks who are counting calories (or costs), it's possible to substitute milk for cream, or yogurt for sour cream. For brunch or early lunch, a smooth fruit soup is absolutely ambrosial

Vegetables for the soups may be fresh, frozen or canned, but almost all should be cooked before blending. Fruit in any form works equally well, but results vary slightly and encourage the cook to be innovative in making flavor adjustments.

Try creating a blender soup sensation of your by making own Mushroom Bisque with Campbell's Condensed Cream of Mushroom Soup, sauteed green onion, fresh mushrooms, sherry and cream. Sip it or spoon it for a satisfying new sensation.

TREATS FOR THE CALORIE-CONSCIOUS

Virtue, they say, is its own award. But if you've been dieting — some call it starving — you may need a small splurge, every now and then, to lift your spirits. In fact, out that an occasional treat relieves the monotony of a weightloss regime — and helps keep you on the straight-'n' narrow the rest of the week!

What better way to be a chocolate dessert? While too much of anything can add pounds, sampled judiciously this trio of tempting recipes shouldn't wreat havoc with your diet plan. Each is easy to prepare using versatile unsweetened cocoa. (Cocoa gives a highly concentrated chocolate flavor that's especially satisfying when you're counting calories. It's very easy to work with, too - just mix it in right from the can, with no pre-melting as for baking chocolate.) And since cocoa has most of the cocoa butter removed, it's much lower in fat than baking chocolate — another plus for dieters!

Use the blender to whip up Dieter's Chocolate Cheesecake. The base is that popular diet standby, cottage cheese. Choose the lowfat variety to further economize on calories.

Chock-full of date, nuts and cereal, Cocoa Porcupines are simple to put together. Just combine ingredients and roll into balls. They make great snacks for the kids, too!

Chocolate Gelatine Dessert will delight even non-dieters. You may want to serve with a choice of fruit or ladyfingers — for the skinnies. Although elegantly light, the taste is rich. Cocoa

Ripe Olives Add Sparkle To Corn Pudding For Meatless Main Dish

Corn comes off the cob to olives in a delicious meatless entree for a midsummer meal. The dark ripe olives add color for appetite appeal, as well as a satisfying chewiness, often missing in meatless dishes.

A protein packed combination of eggs, milk and cheese serves as a nutritious base for this handsome vegetable dish. It is easy to prepare. A white sauce is enriched with eggs and cheese. Sliced ripe olives, fresh corn cut from the cobsbright chopped paraley, soft bread crumbs and seasonings are stirred in. The pudding is then baked slowly.

Ripe olive corn pudding is also an inviting side dish served with grilled chicken or

Royal Treatment For Hot Dogs

Many people are content to broil a frankfurter tast, stap it between a bun, slather it with mustard or catsup and let it go at that. But since hot dogs are uniquely American, they deserve special treatment on the Fourth of July. The addition of zesty bottled all-purpose barbecue sauce lends a subtle yet spicy flavor to the franks and blends beautifully with the cheese and bacon. And for guests who like their hot dogs "real saucy," have a small bowl of the same sauce ready and waiting.

Let's Create Homemade Jelly

local market, at roadside farm stands, waiting to go home with you. Why not think of this as being your year to make homemade Blueberry Jelly? Count on liquid fruit pectin to help capture fruit flavor and assure a good "set" in this easy recipe.

Naturally, you want the jelly to "jell," and that's the on why commercial fruit pectin is used in the recipe. Keep in mind that natural pectin in fruit, which acts as a binder, often decreases as fruit ripens. Consequently, it's necessary to supplement natural pectin with commernatural pectin with commer-cial pectin in order to attain a good "set." Liquid fruit pectin used in this recipe provides preparation conves-ience because it comes in handy pre-measured pouches.

Pride yourself on follow-ing recipes accurately, es-pecially when jelly making. It's the exact proportion of correct ingredients that brings ssful results. Substitutes successful results. Substitutes are taboo, including the idea of substituting powdered fruit pectin for liquid fruit pectin. Commercial fruit pectins are not interchangeable because recipes are developed for a specific type of pectin.

Before beginning the recipe, prepare jelly glasses according to directions in the leaflet tucked inside the package of liquid fruit pectin. Follow the recipe by pre-paring the blueberries so that you'll measure four cups of blueberry juice into a 6- or 8-quart saucepan. Size of the saucepan is important so that saucepan is important so that a mixture of fruit juice, liquid pectin and sugar can come to a full rolling boil. Keep in mind that a full rolling boil is one that no amount of stirring will reduce. After all directions are followed, ladle quickly into the sterilized jelly glasses and cover at once with hot paraffin as instructed.

Store your blueberry "treasure" in a cool, dry place in order to avoid mold or mildew. Properly sealed and stored, this batch of freshly prepared je keep at least a year.

Pudding Stars In Fruit-Topped Cake

Once upon a time a pudding cake was about the moistest and richest cake you could make. Now it's even more! Here's one with stripes of pudding running through it for added taste, texture and was a week. eye appeal.

The method is the magic of this new concept in which you poke holes in a baked and cooled cake and pour on half of a luscious instant pudding and pie filling mixture to create the "stripes." When the remaining pudding thickens, spread on the cake surface as frosting. This creamy cake is garnished with fresh summer fruit to boot...and fancied up with thawed frozen whipped topping on the sides.

a flavor accent. And to blend everything together, there's a rich sauce made from creamy Casino natural Monterey Jack cheese.

With its mild flavor and soft, smooth consistency,

Monterey Jack is the perfect complement to the medley of fresh tastes and textures. The cheese was first made by 19th-century monks in Monterey, California, and is a distant cousin of English cheddar.

Creamy Bean And Tomato Casserole

4 bacon slices

1/4 cup chopped onion 2 tablespoons Parkay

margarine 3 tablespoons

3 tablespoons flour

1/2 teaspoon salt Dash of pepper

1 cup milk 1-1/2 cups (6 ozs.) Casino brand natural Monterey Jack

> 1 lb. fresh, cut green beans, cooked, drained

1 cup chopped

Fry bacon until crisp; remove from skillet. Drain fat, reserving 1 tablespoon. Sauté onion in reserved fat. Add margarine and melt in skillet over low heat. Blend in flour and seasonings. Gradually add milk; cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add cheese; stir until melted. Crumble bacon slices. Add beans, tomato and bacon to cheese sauce. Pour into 1-1/2-quart casserole. Top with tomato slices, if desired, and bake at 350°, 25 to 30 minutes or until hot.
